Open House Displays New Business Building

Students, faculty members and campus visitors are in to an open house in the new Jesse Knight Building Monday a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Special lectures and discussions will also be open to visitors from 2 to 3:30 p.m. in the new building.

THE KNIGHT BUILDING, which was dedicated Monday a.m. by Elder Henry D. Moyle, second counselor in the Presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, was put into operation this autumn semester.

Facilities of the four-story building, counting the basement which is utilized for instructional purposes, make possible environments for creating the most natural possible learning.

Multiple instruction areas in 16 classrooms are augmented by seminar rooms or cubicles and 8 case study rooms in on to well-equipped laboratories and study areas.

THE SEMINAR ROOMS are equipped for the use of case study groups, where problems of assigned "business management" are threshed out at a simultaneous management level.

Part of the cubicle seminar rooms are equipped with phones and one-way glass walls which allow full continuous observation of the case studies. Future uses will include management studies in group dynamics.

WIDE AND ROOMY tables in the laboratories and study provide an extended area for spreading out worksheets and materials. Electronic calculators help to remove the hours from trial balances and other computations.

New executive secretarial training rooms with each situated at an executive secretary's desk provides better for prospective secretaries.

COMPLETE up-to-the-minute periodicals for business are available in the laboratories. An IBM computer installation with increased capacity over the former installation is also housed in the building.

Sixty-eight offices for the dean, department head, and members of the College of Business and other departments, a large lecture hall, and a staff conference room are features of the new building.

He will end 46 years of service in the registrar's office at 31.

Kids Learn Fast—Maybe Too Fast

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 9 (UPI)—Harold Ogden lives in an apartment house where children play in the court each evening. He's used to them coming and asking him to leave his front porch light on for them.

But he's wondering today whether the plot isn't beginning to thicken.

The other night a small boy appeared at his door and asked:

"Would you mind turning on your porch light? We're playing."

So Ogden did.

A few minutes later, a little girl rang his doorbell.

"Would you mind turning off your porch light?" she asked. "We're playing."

George Luther Barrett Donates Property for Scholarship Fund

George Luther Barrett, Los Angeles investor and donor of over a million dollars worth of property to Brigham Young University scholarship funds, will be honored in Friday's assembly, announced President Ernest L. Wilkinson.

Funds realized from this property will be placed in the Alvina Soffel Barrett Memorial Scholarship Fund in memory of Mr.

Barrett's wife who died four years ago.

ALTHOUGH Mr. Barrett and his wife were not members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, they had several friends who were. It was because of these people and their exemplary lives that Mr. Barrett decided to donate the properties to BYU.

Prior to his wife's death, she and Mr. Barrett decided to set up a fund from their vast holdings, the income from which would be used to provide scholarships for worthy students. BYU became the beneficiary of their desire to benefit mankind.

MR. BARRETT will not be able to attend the Friday event, but sound tapes of the program will be sent to him, said Pres. Wilkinson.

A native of Baltimore, Mr. Barrett began working at the age of 14 as a plumbing shop stockroom boy, then became a machinist and tool maker.

HE SERVED with the U. S. Army Air Corps Division in 1917, learning to craft, ground mechanics. After the war he continued to serve the army as a civilian employee at Camp Franklin, now part of Fort Mead, Md., in the tank corps.

Later he entered the garage business in New Orleans, then became a sales distributor with headquarters in Chicago, started an import-export business in Australia and finally returned to San Francisco where he married Alvina Soffel in 1928.

MRS. BARRETT was an accomplished concert pianist but gave up her career when she married Mr. Barrett. She remained prominent in California music circles, however.

Barrett sold securities in Detroit in 1925, then settled in Los Angeles, where he sold securities and became a successful real estate dealer, retiring in 1952. During his years of business, Mr. Barrett combined his industry with a keen sense of business acumen to acquire large holdings of property.

Smathers Claims Castro Regime To Invade Dominican Republic

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (UPI)—Sen. George A. Smathers said today the Castro regime is making preparations to take over the Dominican Republic when strongman Gen. Rafael Trujillo is out of power.

THE FLORIDA Democrat, speaking on a radio program (Mutual Reporters Roundup), said "We have evidence" that these plans are being made in Cuba right now.

SMATHERS made the statement while discussing the decision of the Organization of American States (OAS) to break off diplomatic relations with Trujillo's regime. He said he would be in favor of Trujillo's fall from power if there was any assurance that he would be replaced "by democracy such as we have in Florida, or New York, or Maryland."

But he added: "Let's don't make the mistake we made with Cuba." Despite the fact that Trujillo is a dictator, he said, the Dominicans have been friendly to the United States.

THE STATE Department, Smathers added, seemed to be in a quandary about the move. But he said it would be the height of absurdity to let Cuba's Fidel or Raul Castro take over the Dominican Republic.

"Then you've lost Haiti, and then Venezuela, and then you've lost the whole Caribbean area," he said.

SMATHERS CAME out in favor of breaking off diplomatic relations with Cuban regime immediately. He said he thought such action would help lead to Castro's downfall.

"Other Latin American countries are greatly confused by where we stand," he said. They do not understand why the United States maintains an ambassador in Havana when Castro continually holds us at this country, "and shows contempt for everything we stand for."

Yanks, Pirates Split In Weekend Games

by Oscar Fraley
United Press International
NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (UPI)—Little Bobby Richardson, a long-armed midget in a clan of immortal batting giants, displayed Ruthian muscles today when the New York Yankees again mastered the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-9, in the third game of the World Series.

RICHARDSON, who had struck only one home run all season, broke the game open in the very first inning with the seventh grand-slam home run in series history and drove in the series runner to wipe out the old mark of five held by such sluggers as Mickey Hantle, Bill Dickey, Tony Lazzeri and Big Ted Kuszewski.

But Mantle roared into the act, too, with a two-run blast into the stands—one of his four hits this pleasant sunny day—to move to within one smash of Babe Ruth's all-time series total of 15 before 70,001 roading fans. The Mighty Mite and the Oklahoman Kik this sparked a nine-deous 10-hit attack against six Pirate pitchers, gave the Yanks a 2-1 game lead, allowed Whitey Ford to exact to a sparkling four-hit shutout triumph, and hung the defeat on quickly-bombed Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell.

THERE WAS a big place in the record books, too, for the stubby Ford. Never under any pressure, he allowed only one Pirate to reach third base. He posted his six series win to tie the mark for lefthanders; made a record 12th start a winning one; and by pitching in his seventh series equaled a series mark.

It was a disastrous game for the Pirates, hoping to bounce back off the floor after a ignominious 16-3 defeat in the second game at Pittsburgh. For those rampaging Yankees took right up where they left off at Forbes Field as they rolled up six fast runs in the first inning.

Before it was over, they had sent 11 men to bat, piled up seven hits—including Richardson's grand-slam homer—routed the gum-chewing Mizell and his successor, Clem Labine, and to all intents and purposes ended the ball game after 35 riotous minutes of play.

BOB CERV started the land-slide with a single to center and held there as Roger Maris rifled a long out to the fleeing Roberto Clemente. Mantle sent Cerv to third with a single to center and Moose Skowron started the scoring parade with a single to center which scored Cerv and parked Mantle at third. Gil McDougald walked on four pitches and that was all for the mauled Mizell.

LAW WINS
Pittsburgh Pirate righthander Vernon Law won his second game of the 1960 World Series Sunday as he combined with Elroy Face to nlp the New York Yankees 3-2.

Law's second win was also the Pirates' second win and evened the Series out at two wins apiece. It was the same Pirate hurlers who gave the Pirates their first win in the Series.

THE YANKEES started out like they were going to repeat their treatment of Vinegar Bend Mizell the day before as they touched Law for three first inning hits and loaded the bases with only one down.

Yogi Berra then sliced Law a curve ball down the third base line. Don Hoak, Pirate third baseman backhanded the ball, stepped on third and fired to first to double up the puffing Berra.

IT WAS LAW who lit up the Pirate side of the scoreboard. Yankee starter Ralph Terry had allowed no hits until Cimoli started the fifth inning with a blooper to right field, Burgess walked and Law lined Terry's first pitch into the left field corner for a double which scored Cimoli. Bill Virdon then singled to center to chase home Burgess and Law.
